Hell is for Eternity

When you listen to the world talk about Jesus it doesn’t take long to realize they do not know him. The most common response I hear from the uninformed, is that Jesus came to unite us in love, but that is not the truth. Jesus tells us we should love our enemies Matt 5:44, and to forgive others as we are to receive forgiveness Matt 6: 14-15. Jesus did not come to unite us in love. He came to show us the love of the Father by offering us grace, and then to separate us one from another as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats. Matt 25:31-33.

Jesus talked about hell more than any other in the Bible. This is the way the Bible sermons of my youth were preached. “Hellfire and brimstone” preaching. Somehow, we moved away from this. If you think about the rich man and the beggar in Luke chapter 16:19-31, the rich man wanted to tell his five brethren of the most real place of torment he was in, so they would avoid going to hell. Jesus also told others about hell so they could avoid going and so should we.

Hell is filled with the worst of the worst. Just read over the RSVP list we are provided with in the Bible. You will see who is going to be your roommates if you decide to make this place your eternal home. At the top of the list is the Devil himself along with his angels, Matt.25:41 next on the list is all the evil of all ages 1 peter 4:17-18 followed by the disobedient Rom.2:8-9, unbelievers, liars, Rev.21:8 erring members of Christ, 2 Peter 2:4-20 and those who never obeyed 2 Thess. 1:7-9

Let us pray that we all may remain faithful unto death, Rev.2:10 and tell others of the most wonderful hope we have in Jesus Christ. 1 Cor.15:19
