Conduct Yourself Accordingly

Remember who you are and where you come from. This is the statement many of us heard growing up, usually when we were going to be out on our own away from the control of mom and dad. I knew the answer to this was: first I was a Christian and second, I was from the Church of Christ. I do believe some may think this reference is referring to the individual family, and maybe in some families it is, but I always understood it's meaning to remember you are representing the Church of Christ as a Christian. It was my responsibility to act like a Christian with honesty, integrity and respect for others.

As a child growing up in the Church, Sunday morning Sunday school was a requirement, and in this Church, we studied the Bible. Many of you may have heard me make a joke about having a test in the adult class, well I'm here to tell you that was not a joke when I was a child in Sunday school. We had in class work, homework, and tests. At a very young age I understood that when you act bad expect bad things to happen. I knew this concept because the Bible tells me so. There are many examples of what happens to God's people when they act bad and disobey his commandments.

I understood this as a child, but we see so many acting like the devil himself and expecting a good out come from it. I tell you the truth, if you treat people with evil expect to receive evil as your reward.

We are to live by faith, Rom. 8:17 and our faith is in Jesus Christ and righteousness. As a representative of the Church of Christ as a Christian how can anyone of us justify acting in a mean or aggressive way towards someone else, and how could we applaud with approval the same kind of evil actions done by others who are not Christians? How can a Christian support someone reacting to evil with evil?

This is in no way alright with God, we are to react with love, and kindness, showing the world there is another way. Rom. 1:16-17

Therefore, do not condone what the world does with your approval, instead tell others about our Lord and savior Jesus Christ, how we walk in Him Col. 2:6, how we are all one new man in Christ who lives in us Gal. 2:20, within him we live Eph. 1:22-23

May we all pray that none of the members of the Church of Christ act like this evil world we live in, instead may we all act like Christ doing the will of the Father who is in heaven. All glory and praise to the one and only God.
