Different

Generally speaking, most people find the idea of being “different” to be a less-than-desirable description of their character. Man perceives life to be much easier when we blend in or go with the flow by following the masses. Man in his natural state looks to social behavior for the answers, accepting society's points of view as the absolute authority over man. Social norms become an unwritten rule of behavior that sears the conscience. Soon, man has the ability to justify the act of sin itself in his own mind. 1 Timothy 4:2

Christians are not to be conformed to the world; we are to be transformed by the renewing of our minds. Man in his natural state, with his wants and desires, is always at odds with the loving guidance of God. We are to be different as we prove what is the good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God. Romans 12:2

When we act the same as the world by telling others to follow social norms, we are no longer shining our light for God's will. Instead, we are using a body that does not belong to us to do the work of the world. 1 Corinthians 6:19-20

Light is different from darkness; it is the difference that gives light the power to illuminate. Without being transformed, you are just like the masses, and in you there is no light.

Christians are different in every sense of the word, as we are Christ-like, not world-like. It was God's will that Christ gave Himself to deliver us from this present evil world. Galatians 1:4

Being different does not always mean standing out for the sake of being noticed. It means allowing Christ to be seen in the way we live, speak, think, and treat others. It means choosing God's way when the world tells us there is an easier way.

Sometimes being different may mean standing alone, but we can take comfort in knowing that we are never truly alone when we are standing with God.

We must examine ourselves daily. 2 Corinthians 13:5 If you find yourself following what most people feel or believe, you may come to the conclusion that you are no different from the world you live in. Our goal is not simply to be different from the world, but to be more like Christ.

I pray that we may all be different, seeking only what is the good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God.
